

These kinds of compilers are built to minimise an execution time, memory footprint, etc.

How do they do that?