Don't think about "how to write JS to be faster", just write it

Optimising compilers will take care of your code